Napoleon on the Situation.

PARIS, June 16, 1869.

The Emperor has written a letter to M. Mackau, one of the newly elected members of the Corps Légis latif, acknowledging the receipt of a communication addressed to him by that gentleman in the name of his constituents. The Emperor, in his reply, says the government is equally able to suppress disturbances and grant liberties; but the concession of principles and personal sacrifices are always insufficient in the presence of a popular movement. A government which would preserve its self-respect ought not to yield to external pressure. The Emperor adds:your constituents, as I am convinced that they are the same which are entertained by the majority of Washington, June 16, 1869.

I have just received the following from Richmond:—There was a terrific rain storm in Western North Carolina on Sunday night last, extending over a space of five miles in Iredell and Davie counties. Accounts from that section state that the lightning and thunder were appalling, though the wind was not severe. The rain is said to have been like a monter water arount and the fresh to though the wind was not severe. The rain is said to have been like a monster water apout, and the freshet in Buffalo creek was immense. Davies' mill, Rowan's mill and the Western Railroad bridge and tressle are gone. A large number of culverts on the Western North Carolina Railroad were destroyed and the cuts were filled by landsildes. It will be a null week before the trains run through. There is a great freshet in Hunting, Dutchman and Bear creeks and in South Yadkin river, some of which have never before been seen so high. The crops are overflowed. The bridges, fences, milidams, &c., are gone, and great damage is done to the ripening wheat by being beaten down. The total loss of property is at least $500,000, as far as ascertained. No lives have been lost.

Adjournment of the Convention of Superintendepts of Insane Asylums.

STAUNTON, June 16, 1869. The Convention of Superintendents of Insane Asy-The Convention of Superintendents of Insane Asylums reassembled to-day. A resolution by Dr. Craham, of Texas, favoring a judicious system of religious worship in insane asylums, produced an animated and general discussion, particularly as to the kind of religion and the manner of its preaching, it being held by Dr. Lander that exciting sermons would tend to increase the malady of the patients. Resolutions were adopted favoring regular religious service in hospitals, the choice of and authority over chaplains to be vested in superintendents.

A paper by Dr. Workman, of Toronto, on the upper phases of insanity in females and perversions of mind occasioned by disorders of the system, was debated at length, as was also Dr. itay's report of yesterday.

The members of the Convention dined with Professor Covell, of the Blind Institution.

OBITUARY.

Baron Stanley, of Alderley A cable telegram from London reports the death of the Right Hon. Edward John Stanley, Baron Alderley, in the sixty-seventh year of his age. He was the eldest son of the first baron and was dewas the close son of the arcs out and the Earl of Seended from a common ancestor with the Earl of Derby, whose eldest son, Lord Stanley, was the Minister for Foreign Affairs under the late Disraeli Ministry. The deceased nobleman was born on the 13th of November, 1802, and graduated in 1823 at Christ church, Oxford, taking the degree of B. A. He entered Parlament as a liberal representative of Hindon in 1830, and represented that place for two years, when he sented that place for two years, when he was returned for North Cheshire and served until 1848, at which time he was called to the House of Lords as Lord Edinburg. In October, 1850, he succeeded to his father's title. From 1835 to 1841 he was Joint Secretary of the Treasury, and from 1853 to 1858 President of the Board of Trade. He was also at one time Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs and the Home Department. In 1860 he was appointed Postmaster General, which position he held until the fail of the Russell Ministry in 1866, when he resigned. Baron Stanley was for many years a magistrate and deputy heutenant for Cheshire, and was such, we believe, at the time of his death.

With the ending of the present week opera bougle in this city comes to a full stop. During the past year it reached the meridian of its glory and popularity, not only in this country but also in Europe, in which latter part of the world it still manages to maintain a semblance of vitality, while here it is now in its dying throes, without a plank to stand upon, and is even denied, by a flokie public, the crumbs of patronage necessary for its support. For many months this frothy luxury held our citizens captive with its sparkling effervescent harmonies and droll nonsense, and at one time it even appeared as though they could not possibly get enough of it. But. as of everything else, they soon tred of their new found pleasure, and, signing for a change, if not for something more substantial, they have at last cast away the enchanting musical bauble and will have nothing more to do with it, at least for some little time to come. There was a peculiar sort of charm about it, a freshness and a novelcy that was both fascinating and enjoyable; but, though at the outset it was relished by the public, it proved in the end a costly toy to more than one of our managers. Whether or not opera bougle will be revived again next season is as yet a matter of some little doubt. Temyson holds nigh revel on the New York stage on Monday evening next, the 21st inst. On that particular night "Enoch Arden" will be presented to the public at Booth's theatre, and "Dora" will grace the boards at the Fifth avenue theatre. Both pieces will be brought out in a liberal manner, and, considering that each piece has been cast with acknowledged talent in the leading rôles, it is but fair to presume that each will be capitally enacted. If such prove to be the case, then success, doubtless, awaits both. "Enoch Arden" has never yet been produced in this city, but "Dora" was played at the Broadway theatre about a year ago, with Miss Kate Newton as Dora, and Mr. John Jack as Farmer Alian. At that time the piece did not attract much attention, and was withdrawn after a few representations. Under the new condition of affairs both dramas will be superbly placed upon the stage, and each bids fair to achieve a success. At Booth's theatre Mr. Eriwin Adams will sustain the part of Enoch Arden, the careless husband, and Miss Bianche De Bar the character of Annie, the wife who was too much married. At the Fifth avenue theatre Philadeiphia, will enact Dora, and Mr. Frederick Robinson, of Selwyn's theatre, Boston, will personate Farmer Alian.

WEST POINT, June 16, 1869. The cadet career of the graduating class ended to-day as the career of many another class has ended before it, in the midst of mingled joy and sorrow. To be sure from every division in the barracks where a "grad" reigns supreme there have issued from early morning sounds of merriment and of mirth; that the bugle call to recitation and the drum beat to parade have now no more alarms for the "men of '69"; that gray coats and pants have been kicked about and pompooned hats torn to shreds, the general gladness has been for all that tinged with a regret that no attempt was made to conceal it. For old friends with whom the class have marched side by side in review and in ordinary drill must be left behind, and the green sequestered spots beneath the drooping trees, where fond words have been breathed, are not so easily forgotten, even though "the onset, the pursuit, the roar of victory o'er the routed foe" be beckoning in the future.
THE LAST PARADE.

THE LAST PARADE.

The sun had just dropped behind old Fort Put this evening, leaving the west "colored like a robin's breast," when the drums beat to parade and the graduates marched forth with their comrade for the last time. They carried no rifles, and wore their side arms only. The corps did not come out on the plain at double quick time, as is their wont, but marched forward slowly by companies. When the battalion had formed in line and the usual movements had been gone through with, the band, while marching along the front, played "Home, Sweet Home," and "Auld Lang Syne," the notes echoing from crag to crag along the mountain ranges and returning with redoubled sweetness to the plains beneath. Then, as Adjutant Rockwell in a voice broken with emotion gave the command, "Parade dismissed," the class formed in a body and marched forward to the front, the band meanwhile playing "Out of the Wilderness," and then broke ranks. And thus ended the career of the class THE GENERAL STANDING.

THE GENERAL STANDING.

It will be seen by the general standing of the class, which I append below, that my statement in yesterday's letter as to who the "stars" would be, is fully borne out. It should be understood that 2200 is the maximum merit a cadet can obtain, be he as wise as Solomon. STATE. 1 2
